

Inventory Control Specialist

Service Line, Inc. | Reedsburg, WI

Supporting Renegade Parts Washers and Hanen Automatic Cattle & Livestock Feeders

Full-Time / In-Person

Schedule: Monday–Friday, 8:00 AM–4:30 PM

About the Role

Service Line, Inc. is looking for an organized, hands-on person to join our team as an Inventory Control Specialist.

Service Line manufactures and supports both Renegade Parts Washers and Hanen Automatic Cattle & Livestock Feeders. This position will support inventory and production needs across both brands.

The Inventory Control Specialist is responsible for keeping inventory accurate, organized, and easy to find so our production team has the right parts when they need them.

We are looking for someone who does more than correct an inventory number when something is wrong. The right person will help determine why the problem happened, correct it, and look for ways to prevent it from happening again.

What You'll Do

- Keep inventory quantities accurate in NetSuite.
- Investigate inventory discrepancies and help determine the cause.
- Make approved inventory adjustments for scrap, damaged parts, and other variances.
- Organize shelving, bin locations, and inventory storage areas.
- Create and improve bin numbers and part locations.
- Make room for new inventory and keep storage areas organized and easy to use.
- Help determine appropriate inventory levels based on part usage and supplier lead times.
- Pick parts for work orders and help keep production moving.
- Assist with work order processing when needed.

- Help with final machine check-off when needed.
- Work with purchasing, production, shipping, and other departments to resolve inventory issues.
- Look for practical ways to improve inventory accuracy, organization, and processes.

What We're Looking For

- Strong organization and attention to detail.
- Good problem-solving skills and a willingness to investigate why something went wrong.
- Comfortable learning and working in computer systems.
- Basic Microsoft Excel skills.
- Ability to organize physical parts, shelving, bins, and storage areas.
- Comfortable working in both an office/computer environment and a hands-on manufacturing environment.
- Ability to communicate clearly and work well with different departments.
- Dependable and willing to take ownership of responsibilities.
- Willing to learn, ask questions, and improve how things are done.
- Takes pride in accurate, quality work.

Helpful, But Not Required

- Previous inventory, warehouse, purchasing, or manufacturing experience.
- Experience using NetSuite or another ERP or inventory management system.
- Experience with inventory counts, bin locations, stocking systems, or material handling.

We are willing to train the right person who is organized, dependable, willing to learn, and comfortable taking ownership of the position.

What We Offer

- Competitive pay.
- 100% employer-paid health insurance for qualified employees.
- Paid time off and paid holidays.
- Retirement plan options.
- Full-time, Monday–Friday schedule.
- A stable, locally owned manufacturing company.

Why This Role Matters

Inventory affects nearly every part of our business, including purchasing, production, shipping, service, and customer delivery.

When inventory is accurate and parts are easy to find, production keeps moving, employees spend less time searching for materials, and customer orders stay on schedule.

When inventory is inaccurate, missing, or difficult to find, it can slow down multiple departments. This position helps identify those problems, correct them, and improve the systems that prevent them from happening again.

This is a good fit for someone who enjoys organization, accuracy, solving problems, and finding better ways to get things done.
